Summary Report: Plastic waste collection rally

Date: 30th January 2022

Organizer : Smt. Janakibai Rama Salvi College of Arts, Commerce, and Science

Venue : Kalwa East

No of Participants : 47

Introduction:

The NSS Unit of Smt. Janakibai Rama Salvi College of Arts, Commerce, and Science organized a Plastic Waste Collection Rally as part of its commitment to environmental sustainability and community service. The rally aimed to raise awareness about the harmful effects of plastic pollution and promote the importance of waste management and recycling.

Activities and Highlights:

- 1. Pre-Rally Awareness Campaign: Prior to the rally, volunteers conducted an awareness campaign within the college and surrounding community. Informational posters, flyers, and announcements were used to educate participants about the adverse effects of plastic pollution on the environment and human health.
- 2. Rally Route and Collection Points: The rally followed a designated route through the college campus and nearby neighborhoods. Participants, equipped with gloves and trash bags, collected plastic waste littered along the route. Collection points were strategically located to facilitate proper segregation and disposal of the collected waste.
- 3. Community Engagement: The rally served as an opportunity to engage with the local community and raise awareness about responsible waste management practices. Volunteers interacted with residents, distributed educational materials, and encouraged them to reduce, reuse, and recycle plastic products.
- 4. Segregation and Recycling: Following the collection drive, the gathered plastic waste was segregated based on recyclability. Non-recyclable waste was disposed of responsibly, while recyclable materials were sent to recycling facilities or repurposed for creative initiatives such as eco-friendly crafts or construction materials.

Summary Report: Street play on Save girl child

Date: 7th January 2023

Organizer : Smt. Janakibai Rama Salvi College of Arts, Commerce, and Science

Venue : Manisha Nagar Kalwa West

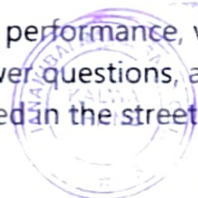

No of Participants : 40

Introduction:

The NSS Unit of Smt. Janakibai Rama Salvi College of Arts, Commerce, and Science organized a powerful street play as part of its initiative to raise awareness about the importance of saving the girl child and combating gender-based discrimination. The street play aimed to address social issues such as female foeticide, gender inequality, and promote gender equality and women's empowerment.

Activities and Highlights:

1. Script Development: Prior to the performance, volunteers collaborated to develop a compelling script that effectively conveyed the message of saving the girl child and empowering women. The script highlighted the societal challenges faced by girls and women and emphasized the need for collective action to address these issues.
2. Rehearsals: Volunteers dedicated time to rehearse and fine-tune their performances under the guidance of experienced mentors. Rehearsals focused on delivering impactful dialogues, gestures, and expressions to captivate and engage the audience effectively.
3. Street Play Performance: The street play was staged in a public area with high footfall to maximize outreach and engagement. Volunteers utilized colorful costumes, props, and engaging storytelling techniques to draw the attention of passersby and create a memorable and thought-provoking experience.
4. Audience Interaction: Following the performance, volunteers engaged with the audience to solicit feedback, answer questions, and facilitate discussions on the themes and messages conveyed in the street play. This interactive
